

TRUFFLE CAPITAL INVESTS €2.5M IN SP3H

Truffle Capital has provided green technology company SP3H with a €2.5 million investment in a first round of financing.

SP3H was founded in response to a strong market demand formulated by the land, air and sea shipping industries. It endeavours to develop innovative and proprietary technological solutions which offer lower fuel consumption; lower pollution levels and carbon dioxide emissions; and optimisation of reliable performances and engine power. Its main activity involves the optimisation of engine efficiency. Its innovation lies in the integration of a new on-board system for vehicles. Its patented system offers the only existing solution to manage variability, through real time determination of fuel quality.

Truffle Capital is an independent European private equity firm originally set up for investing in spin-offs from companies active in the Energy, Information Technologies and Life Sciences sectors. The firm is led by a team of four General Partners with decades of successful investment and entrepreneurial experience in both Europe and Silicon Valley. Backed by an investment team of international experts, for a total of 12 professionals, Truffle Capital aims to achieve superior financial returns by leveraging its industry knowledge, extensive network, and operational experience to identify business opportunities that match latent market needs. fi
